ASET International Services is awarded language services contract by U.S. Department of Justice.

Arlington, VA -- ASET International Services Corporation, a leading language services provider, announced today that it was one of four companies selected by the U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division, to provide linguistic services (translation and interpretation). The contract is for five years inclusive of all option years. The ceiling amount of the awards, including all options, is $25,000,000.

“ASET is extremely pleased to have this opportunity to support the Criminal Division of the U.S. Department of Justice,” said Erika Nobel Hendzel, President & CEO of ASET International. “ASET has extensive experience supporting other DOJ components, as well as other Federal agencies with similar missions. We believe that ASET will bring the Criminal Division heightened levels of responsiveness and quality. The Criminal Division contract will give ASET an opportunity to expand its support to mission critical government programs. Our services will include a variety of written and oral linguistic support of principally a legal nature, but will also cover a broad range of technical subject matter. We have worked to establish an excellent foundation for our support to the Department for several months and we are prepared to mobilize immediately,” Erika said.

ASET International Services Corporation, founded in 1989, is a woman-owned business and one of the nation’s premier language services companies. Headquartered in Arlington, Virginia and with resources and partner organizations in 32 countries, ASET provides translation, localization, multilingual publishing, interpreting, interpreting equipment, audio/video production, staffing and customized language services to over 500 government agencies, international institutions, Fortune 500 companies, law firms and other commercial entities.
