FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ASET INTERNATIONAL SERVICES LLC EXPANDS BOSCH DCN NEXT GENERATION INVENTORY

ASET International Services LLC recently added a range of Bosch DCN Next Generation (DCN-NG) wired and wireless conferencing products to their already extensive Bosch inventory.

Arlington, Virginia (September 17, 2009) – Established in 1989 and a member of the Bosch Congress Rental Network (CRN) since 1999, ASET provides its clients with the latest, most versatile conferencing tools available, and is a specialist in digital language translation. ASET provides its integrated services to a large and varied customer base which includes government agencies, international organizations, professional and trade associations, and corporate clients around the world.

With a Bosch DCN-NG equipment list that now includes over 100 discussion units (a mixture of DCN-DISDCS and DCN-CONFF Cententus full-function models), ASET now requires all its technicians to utilize NG software for system control. ASET also has the largest inventory of Bosch Integrus (wireless language distribution system) receivers in the U.S. (over 1,000 32-channel units).

Along with its award-winning design, Bosch DCN-NG is simple to set up, intuitive to operate, and worry-free when it comes to the typical wireless "issues"; the system is immune to interference from mobile phones and other wireless technologies (including Wi-Fi and Bluetooth).

As Director of Conference Services and Equipment for ASET, Fred Baysinger knows all about the importance of reliable and stylish conferencing equipment: "Bosch Conferencing equipment is the best hardware available on the market. As part of my responsibilities, I regularly benchmark it against competitive products and Bosch always comes out on top. The style is attractive and the performance is flawless – it has less than a 1% failure rate worldwide."

Bosch and ASET have had a long and successful partnership over the years and look forward to many more with the addition of Bosch DCN-NG to ASET's inventory. Baysinger adds: "We have been the sole US CRN member for over a decade. This has enabled us to travel the world and utilize like-kind technology and personnel at extremely competitive and beneficial rates. The CRN demands the same level of quality from its personnel as I demand from our hardware. Both always deliver. I look forward to many years of continued success in the industry, thanks to CRN and Bosch."
