ASET PROVIDES SIMULTANEOUS DIGITAL INTERPRETATION SERVICES FOR GLOBAL SUMMIT ON CLIMATE CHANGE

ASET Conference Services provided onsite management, technical expertise and interpretation equipment for 2009's Indigenous People Global Summit on Climate Change.

(ARLINGTON, VA) June 25, 2009 – The 2009 Indigenous People Global Summit on Climate Change brought together a variety of attendees from around the world to discuss the importance of climate change and how each culture is impacted. The purpose of the Summit was to enable Indigenous Peoples from all regions of the world to exchange their knowledge and experience of adapting to the impacts of climate change.

Held at the Dena'ina Convention Center in Anchorage, Alaska from April 20-24, summit organizers brought in global conference service providers, ASET, to provide equipment for 4 concurrent sessions, including 12 booths and 400 receivers in support of the Summit.

ASET provided solutions ranging from simultaneous interpreting conference/congress audio visual equipment and audience response systems to multilingual materials for international events and on-site management and technical event support. In addition to these services, ASET offers a unique integration of world-class language conference equipment services and products.

The event was attended by 400 delegates, including government officials and climate change experts from France, Latin America and Russia in an attempt to allow people from all regions of the world to exchange their knowledge and experience of adapting to the impacts of climate change. The end goal of the summit was to come up with recommendations to be presented at the Conference of Parties (COP) to the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change in Copenhagen, Denmark in December 2009.
